DR. SCOTT LIVELY

Dr. Scott Lively has advocated and modeled the Biblical worldview as a writer, speaker, attorney, pastor, human rights consultant, and missionary for more than 30 years on five continents.

At the age of 12, he became an alcoholic as a means of coping with his family situation. His life spiraled downhill. At the age of 29, and by the grace of God, he gave his life to Jesus Christ, alone and in an alcohol treatment facility, and was completely healed and delivered from drugs and alcohol.

In 2008, following a 50-city speaking tour through eight countries of the former Soviet Union, he and his wife moved into the inner-city of Springfield, Massachusetts, to launch a seven-year campaign to create a model for re-Christianizing America's "post-Christian" cities. That unique inner-city mission is now thriving under local leadership and they are working to recreate the model in other cities.

Scott is married to Anne and has four adult children.
